The War You Don't See

[97 min]

By John Pilger, world renowned filmmaker & journalist, whose previous films include The War on Democracy, Stealing a Nation, and Breaking the Silence – among many others.

S The War You Don't See, Pilger's latest film asks 'What is the role of the media in rapacious wars like Iraq and Afghanistan, and how are the crimes of war reported and justified when they're our crimes?'

N Modern 'democracies' don't leave marks. Elites do not want the public to know what they're doing. The public is a threat that needs to be countered.

O The lives of countless men, women and children depend on the truth. This film is about your right to know.

P Turn on the lights.

"Never has so much official energy been expended in ensuring journalists collude with the makers of rapacious wars that they say are now 'perpetual'. They plan a state of permanent conflict wholly dependent on keeping at bay an enemy whose name they dare not speak: the public." ~John Pilger

"We had a secret weapon," he boasted. "We had the media, especially TV. You got to have the media." Venezuelan general who, with CIA backing, led a coup against the democratic government of Venezuela in 2002.
