Ghosts of JeJu

[80 min]

S This film exposes U.S. culpability in Korea since 1945. It is not a history of the Forgotten War, but for the first time reveals unimaginable atrocities committed at the hands of the U.S. Military Government in Korea immediately after WWII.

y The film places the modern-day protest by the peaceful people of Jeju Island, S. Korea against the construction of a massive US naval base in the tiny village of Gangjeong in the context of the massacre of as many as 80,000 of their fellow citizens only 60 years ago.

O Many of the villagers are survivors of those crimes or direct descendants of those who lost their lives because they were opposing the American occupation. But, the resolute attitude of the villagers and their supporters will leave audiences inspired, deeply moved, and asking "what can we do?"

"We don't want a war base on the Island of Peace." ~ savejejunow.org

"The double standards imposed on North Korea remain ever apparent, as the international community remains silent as [US backed] South Korea expands its arsenal of advanced military technology in an effort to become the world's seventh largest arm exporter" ~ Nile Bowie

"It's not easy being a flag-waving American nationalist. In addition to having to deal with the usual disillusion, anger, and scorn from around the world incited by Washington's endless bombings and endless wars, the nationalist is assaulted by whistle blowers like Bradley Manning and Edward Snowden, who have disclosed a steady stream of human-rights and civil-liberties scandals, atrocities, embarrassing lies, and embarrassing truths." ~ William Blum
