Dirty Energy

[94 min]

S On April 20th, 2010, the Deepwater Horizon oil rig exploded off the Gulf of Mexico, killing eleven BP workers and spewing 200 million barrels of oil into the ocean.

Y DIRTY ENERGY brings to light the personal stories of the Louisiana fishermen and local residents directly impacted by the worst environmental disaster in U.S. history. Filmmaker Bryan D. Hopkins gains intimate access to the lives and homes of these people, as they struggle to rebuild their lives and contend with emerging health crises related to the toxic dispersants used to clean up the spill.

O DIRTY ENERGY paints a poignant portrait of the human cost of the calamity, and the systematic failure by BP and the U.S. Government to effectively and transparently manage the environmental impact.

P Stunning visuals and an enraging story of greed and corruption.

"The greatest environmental disaster with no end in sight! Eleven workers dead. Millions of gallons of oil gushing for months (and years) to come. Jobs vanishing. Creatures dying. A pristine environment destroyed for generations. A mega-corporation that has lied and continues to lie, and a government that refuses to protect the people." ~Seize BP

"It takes some cheek to go and use a sunflower logo when your business is dirty oil" ~ Ben Stewart, Greenpeace activist

"We ought to take him offshore and dunk him 10 feet underwater and pull him up and ask him 'What's that all over your face?'" ~Billy Nungesser, president of Plaquemines Parish, about BP CEO Tony Hayward

*"BP is now engaged in an aggressive legal and public-relations campaign to limit how much it pays individuals and businesses for the losses its reckless behavior caused."
~Stephen Teague, June, 2013, NYT Op-Ed*
